RE: The Board's Role in Red Robin's Proposed Turnaround

Dear Madam and Sirs:

We write on behalf of Clinton Group, Inc. and Spotlight Advisors, LLC, together with their affiliates (the "Investor Group"), which own more than 1.4 million shares of Red Robin Gourmet Burgers, Inc. (the "Company").

Over the Summer and again in the Fall, we spoke with representatives of the Board of Directors of the Company (the "Board") about the role and responsibilities of the Board with respect to considering merger and acquisition proposals. We have been assured on multiple occasions that the Board is open to such a transaction and that it would fully and seriously consider any proposal received.

We believe, for the reasons below, that the time has come for the Board to proactively engage likely buyers and strategic partners about a sale of the Company and to solicit such proposals on behalf of owners.

We recognize that this would be quite a change in public posture for the Board. Last August, the Company adopted and maintains a so-called shareholder rights plan. We believe the adoption of this plan was perceived as a signal that the Board is unlikely to consider a sale of the Company.

By its terms, the plan even serves to preclude a super-majority of shareholders from accepting an acquisition proposal without first garnering approval of the Board. It thus turns the relationship between the owners and their representatives on its head and essentially puts us at your mercy. With due respect to the Board, shareholders have not asked you – and do not need you — to use the artifice of a poison pill (adopted without shareholder approval) nor the privilege of your Board seat to keep a majority of the Company's owners from accepting a non-coercive acquisition proposal. The Company is, after all, our asset.

We do not need the Board to serve as our gatekeeper or guardian. Instead, the Board should work to provide the owners some choices at this critical juncture in the Company's history.

The Company has embarked on a restructuring effort that we believe will ultimately bear fruit. As we have expressed before, we are strong supporters of change at Red Robin and believe there is significant upside to today's cash flow generation and valuation. We are, so far, pleased with the performance of Mr. Carley. However, we are also mindful of the significant challenges in executing such a turnaround plan while remaining a publicly held company (such as the lack of guidance) and, even if all goes well, the likely volatility and uncertainty such an effort often engenders.

As significant owners of the Company, we are not convinced that the best path forward is a restructuring of the Company while it remains publicly owned. It is entirely possible that a sale to a financial sponsor or industry participant that has expertise in restructurings is a better choice: it could provide more certainty and less volatility and, in the case of a strategic buyer, for example, even more value than a successful public turnaround.

The only way for the Board and the owners to make an informed decision on this question is for the Board to change its public posture toward strategic transactions. We believe the Board should not only eliminate the poison pill, but that it should proactively solicit proposals for the acquisition of the Company. (We believe there are many interested parties.) Only by being informed of the alternatives can the Board make a good decision – one in which the shareholders can have confidence – about the best way forward.

If the Board does not take this path – eliminating the poison pill, pledging not to adopt another one without shareholder approval and seeking merger and acquisition proposals – we will be forced to consider all of our options as shareholders.

We are available to discuss the topics covered in this letter at any time and in any place that is convenient for you.

Sincerely,

George E. Hall
